1278.	THE ORDER OF THE GUELPHS OF HANOVER. A superb example of the Star of a Military Knight Grand Cross in perfect condition. In silver, gold and enamel made by "Rundell, Bridge & Co. Jewellers to their Majesties and all the Royal Family, Ludgate Hill, London" about 1820. This Order, founded by the Prince Regent in 1815, was used largely as an English Order until 1837, when the Crown of Hanover was separated from that of Gt. Britain.

The Grand Cross carried the honor of Knighthood and recipients used the initials G. C. H. after their names. Many of the distinguished Admirals and Generals of the Napoleonic Wars received this Order, including the Duke of Wellington, who was given the Star in diamonds. During this period the insignia were made in England. After 1837 less fine workmanship was shown in the ones made in Germany's variety. A Rare and Interesting Piece for the Discriminating Collector. 150.00

1279. IMPERIAL RUSSIA. THE ORDER OF SAINT GEORGE.

The badge of the 4th Class of the Order in gold and enamel of superb workmanship, with high convex enamel on the arms. Cross is perfect with minute flake chipped off the enamel surface of corner of the lower arm. This minor defect does not disfigure this Fine Example of old Europe's Most Distinguished Military Order of Knighthood, founded by Catherine the Great in 1769. Original examples in gold are very rare today. 125.00
